The High-Value Retail sector has its own particular set of challenges that require specialist asset tracking, monitoring and recovery solutions with bespoke components, that differ from client to client.

We transport high-value retail products and are committed to providing a first-class service, treating fragile and sensitive consignments with care and respect at each stage.

Our consistently secure transport services have helped us build our reputation for quality and reliability throughout the UK and Europe, and we have earned the trust of several high-end retail brands.

Providing an attentive and professional service

We offer consultancy to ensure the correct service and suitable packaging materials are used to protect your expensive goods. We always ensure that we know exactly what we are transporting, this way we can tailor a service to best suit you.

At OSE, we leave nothing to chance

When it comes to security, our reputation is second to none. Our team specialises in storing, handling and transporting high-value fashion and luxury goods.

We have unlimited access to a premium logistics network, which guarantees close attention to detail at every stage of the supply stage.

To provide our customers with total reassurance, we use the latest in precision vehicle tracking systems. State-of-the-art technology allows consistent, accurate responses, so you can follow the progress of your dedicated vehicle while it is en route to its delivery or collection point.

We understand the worries that come with the transportation of high-value goods, and that's why we are committed to making your consignment 100% traceable in real time.
